19th century (?); circa 1920

The Wood House, an early 20th century frame building, has incorporated the fieldstone gable end wall of an earlier structure into its foundation. The earlier house on this site was destroyed by an extensive fire circa 1920, and the surviving wall was used when the present structure was built to replace it.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The purpose of this survey is only to record the existance of a earlier set of building at this location. The only visible remains of a early building is the uncoursed stone gable end wall to this primarily 20th century structure. The wall, according to the owners was the end wall of slave quarters. The wall measures approximately 13'6" in length. It is 2 stories high with a brick cap to the stone chimney pile. The present structure is ~~associated with~~ 2 bays across by one room deep and a small part of a rather large house. The earlier buildings were supposedly lost in an extensive fire and the stone wall is all that remains.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Documentation of this structural wall is the primary purpose of this survey. An archeological investigation may provide an approximate date but the area appears extensively disturbed. The house was undoubtedly one of the earlier structures in the immediate vicinity of Hart's Church.
